

Quality Veterinarian of the Year Award

Each year the Dairy Quality Center raises public awareness of the importance of bovine practitioners by honoring someone as the Quality Veterinarian of the Year.

The Quality Veterinarian of the Year award has been given annually since 1999. Herd veterinarians are the backbone of the prescription pharmaceutical system. The community and the country depend upon the veterinarian's integrity to manage brucellosis, tuberculosis, foot and mouth disease, and other animal and human health programs. DQC's terrorism preparedness plans have been built around the educational and licensing system that supports the herd veterinarian.
